STI Celebrates Safety

— STI delivers Safety —

Fort Wayne, IN — June 15, 2007 — STI, a specialized transportation company providing quality services for products requiring special handling, equipment, on-site services and transportation, celebrated safety with the STI team including drivers, agents, and employees.

STI celebrated the annual Safety Day at the corporate headquarters, with demonstrations on safe driving procedures and equipment safety. Trucks and automobiles were measured out for a visual awareness and demonstrations were given on what can happen when improper equipment is being used.

The STI Safety Day is part of the continuing development of the STI safety culture. In addition to the Safety Day STI holds monthly safety meetings for all employees providing education which includes innovation and procedures for drivers, and all employees.

“STI is committed to safety; it is our number one priority, said Rob Shearer, president and CEO of STI. We are instilling a safety culture regardless of a person’s position. Safety goes beyond the quality process - it is quality applied.”

“STI is focused on keeping the public safe from collisions and injuries by emphasizing elimination of DOT preventable accidents, said Tim Hughes, director of safety, for STI. We are pleased with the reduction in frequency of these accidents over the past two years.”

STI is a Fort Wayne, Indiana, transportation company which is a leader in providing quality services for products requiring special handling, specialized equipment, on-site services and transportation.
